Great Struggle Between Bostons and Philadelphias, Twenty Innings Being Played and Mack's Men Winning Other Contests in American League

Two well earned victories came to the New ork Americans yesterday, the Washingtons being their opponents. The latter are now at the tail end. After beating the Bostons in the morning, the Philadelphias in the after-noon engaged Collins's team in one of the greatest struggles in the history of baseball. The game lasted twenty innings, and the philadelphias were again successful. The thicagos broke even, and as a result there is still a tie for first place. St. Louis and De-troit also divided honors. control prays and good plays, and in all four crowded hours of action, elation and alian. It could not have been better entertainment for a holiday crowd, and the score of thousands saw baseball of all kinds, but principally keen, clean and well fought baseball.

The stiff game that the New Yorks have been playing for two weeks, the ideal weather for the short and the holiday brought out an attendance that caused an overflow from the stands onto the field and then left the stand chock full. It was as enjoyable an outing as was to be found anywhere about the city the New Yorks helping to make it so by a display of fighting spirit, backed up by being a message to Garcia. Both games might endency to weaken or become discouraged.

Two pitchers were knocked out of the box in the first game—one on each side. Long Tom Hughes lasted five innings, and Broad Jack Powell only two. Bill Hogg went in for New York in the third. A hot grounder struck him just above the ankle made it necessary for him to leave the game and made a temporary cripple of him. His leg was black and blue and swollen as a result of the injury. Griffith succeeded Hogg, and his craft and superb control were entirely too much for the Nationals. Incidentally Griffith made a three base hit, and when asked after the game what he was going to do with it, replied:

"Have it gilded and hung in the trophy room."

It may be mentioned in passing that Jimmy Williams with the finish of the second contest.

"Have it gilded and hung in the trophy room."

It may be mentioned in passing that Jimmy Williams with the finish of the second contest had played his twenty-fourth consecutive game without an error. That's fielding some, and all of Williams's chances yesterday were not easy either. Jones, who did high class work in center field all day, opened the first vicuniter with a two-bagger to center. Hill bunted to Powell, who threw to third too late to get Jones. Knoll sent a liner to Elberfeld, who in an effort to double up Hill at first threw wild, and Jones scored. Mullen tripled to right in the second inning. Heyden, whose throwing to bases was a thing of delight, shot a triple over Fultz's head that secred Mullen.

The New Yorks tied the score in their half of the second. Yeager beat out a caloric grounder to Hill. He came in when Chase mangled a straight one for three bases to the left field fence. Fultz was hit by a pitched ball. Kleinow's liner went to Cassidy, who threw low to Stahl trying to double Fultz. Chase stampeded to the plate before Stahl could recover the ball. There is a certain spot in left field which looks to a layman as if it ought to be reached readily by a fielder, but which neither Elberfeld nor Dougherty seem able to negotiate. Jones sent a high fiv to that spot in the third inning. Hill sacrificed, and Knoll's hit scored Jones. Elberfeld made a bad throw of Anderson's grounder, and Knoll scored stahl butted safely, but Yeager threw Anderson out at the plate after a good stop of Mullen's drive. Stahl and Mullen perpetrated son out at the plate after a good stop of Mullen's drive. Stahl and Mullen perpetrated a double steal, Stahl scoring.

The New Yorks found themselves in the fifth, and the Washingtons kindly obliged with a timely error. Fultz bunted safely, Kleinow hit to Hill, and Fultz was saved from a force by Mullen's muff. Griffith bunted to Stahl, who made a bed throw to first, and Fultz scored. Keeler forced Kleinow, Elberfield's rampageous rap scored Griffith, and then there came a tide in the affairs of Williams that he took at the flood and led on to victory. He shattered space with a two bagger that pushed Keeler and Elberfield home and put the New Yorks on the right side of the ledger. Williams's play on Cassidy's abbreviated grounder in the sixth inning was so fast it made the spectators dizzy. Fultz slipped in another bont in this inning and scored on Griffith's epoch making three bagger. Dougherty, who was up next, was a long time in finding his but, and in the meantline Griffith recouped his bellows. On such subtleties are victories founded.

Cassidy's error, Williams's sacrifice and chase's single gave the New Yorks a run

Griffith's hillmen had a bully good time on the Fourth. Their holiday festivities consisted of two victories yesterday afternoon over the Washingtons, not the most formidable foemen to be found, but pretty stiff opposition, for there are no snaps in the American League. The New Yorks had to play uphill bail in both games, and while their game was not always perfect or smooth they were there with the spirit, the ginger and the speed.
